DEATH OF MAN

Freedom of speech is one of the most misunderstood civil rights in the west. It does not protect speech which calls for harm against another person or people. It does however protect language from government regulation and interference. It doesn't however protect language from regulation and interference from the capitalist, free-market system in which the language must exist. It does however grant our ability to create language without government oversight. It doesn't however grant our ability write our own algorithms that may show us our language or language similar to ours. It protects unfortunately only the production of speech and not the distribution of it. And we must ask, unfortunately, do we have free-access to separate forms of distribution, to separate platforms where information is provided?

TO DWELL ON THE PAST AND FUTURE

Nothing exists outside of the present. Not the past nor the future. Why torment yourself on experiences out of your control? Exist only in the moment with your self and the world.

TO FEAR THE UNKNOWN

Without risk there is no reward. Without reward there is no living. Trudge into too deep waters and trust your body to swim, it has before and it will continue to if you let it.

TO LIVE ANOTHER LIFE BESIDES YOUR OWN

Your eyes are unique. The world is the way you see it, and if you do so through others' eyes you will be only disappointed. Fall in love with the way the world is to only you.

TO SPEAK WITH ANOTHER'S TONGUE

If you speak your own language others will listen. Reach from the heart and give with the brain. Your body will take care of the communication.

TO BE PASSIVE TO ALL AROUND

Explore the world with all of your body. Touch, lick, smell, see, and listen to each atom formulating the universe's wisdom before you.

TO NOT KNOW YOUR OWN HANDS

Observe & understand yourself and your body's abilities. Look closely within and give yourself compliments often. You've worked hard to get where you are.

I knew it'd be a terrible idea to enter the room half-cock and so I did
even though the old chuckling ladies in the corner
were pointing their half-drunk Braniks

my thing

with clinks of their fake teeth rattling deep down into the asshole

THE LOCALS

Hester Dim was an English Lit undergraduate eager to found her own magazine. She fancied herself as big as the greats, except for the days when she wasn't wearing heels. Also, she couldn't decide whether to focus on being original or chic. She chose neither, changed her name to Lester Flim and moved to Alaska.

When she secured a well-paid job in a local bar, she felt she made the right decision. She fell in love with a local lumberjack who, in a fit of ecstasy, cut off her leg. She forgave him but secretly, she would resolve to pee into the bathtub every time before his turn.

"Isn't the water rather odd looking, dear?" he complained to Lester on March 21st 2009.

"Oh, that must be the banana shampoo," Lester replied on March 22nd 2014.

I have bent the atom back to space

I have escaped the cosmic self and found him tangled in bathtub hair showered in galactic mounds of dead skin cells

I am calling the cosmic self the voice of the motion

I have four the cosmic self

the cosmic self has reached within me

Wyšívání

Jazz Jam Renamed to Standards With a Twist

(ZIZKOV) Venues across Prague 3 are renaming their jazz jams to "Standards with a Twist" due to on-going descrepencies in the neighborhood.

"Look there's nothing wrong with standards, but you can't possibly call all these events jams," said resident Milos Horak.

KROTCH reporters were recently called to the scene and discovered that nothing makes a jazz man more mad when another jazz man out jazzes the first jazz man.

Furthermore, the on-going format of jazz standards with a twist has been reported only to be an ego-led event where everyone's waiting for their solo. Listening to eachother is not encouraged.

Suggestions have been made by some community members for the jazz musicians to record videos of themselves at home and to just play those on stage instead. Maybe we can play them all at the same time?

Alcohol Advisory Board to Recommend no More Than Two Units of Poetry

(NOVE MESTO) Recent recommendations were drafted from the Alcohol Advisory Board (AAB) on recommended poetry consumption.

In a ten to one decision, the committee agreed that no person should consume more than two (2) pieces of poetry throughout their lifetime. Noting, "anymore than two may result in a mental health crisis."

Research continues to be conducted on what larger literary firms are putting in their "poetry" and until the AAB confirms each linguistic strand, it is recommended to limit consumption.

Pologamy on Decline due to Economy

(BRNO) Economists are drawing correlations between the state of the economy and current types of romantic relationships. They have found that people just cannot afford two boyfriends today.

Having a partner is pricey--but two? Or Three? Not in this economy!
